

To Whom It Concerns,

I am 100% supportive of using PPSN with the registration process.

It is the one common denominator with every Irish citizen.

It's nonsensical not to use it, in fact.

I'd also contact every individual who's worked at the ballot station in the past, and ask their opinion.

They are the people with the first hand experience of dealing with voters and the system as it's been.

We have to be conscious that some individuals aren't familiar or comfortable with any internet or online process.

Especially older people.

Also taking into consideration those in longterm care facilities etc... so processing PPSN information via online or post, would accurately eliminate those unable to vote while including those able to do so.

This is long overdue.

Thank you for initiating an improvement.

Regards,

Geraldine.
